We're proud to say that all our staff is members of the Australian Property Institute, which means they've got the necessary tertiary qualifications and experience to complete valuation assessments. Our property valuers in Brisbane also have a crucial element in place: diligence concerning quality control. Our management at Valuations QLD is actively involved in providing valuation services. All valuation staff are trained in company procedures and have local experience as well as tertiary qualifications to provide clients with an accurate interpretation of marked data. Experience has no substitute in the valuation profession-- and all our valuers should be encouraged to undergo regular training to learn and improve their craft. That way, they can develop their skills quickly, allowing us the scope to create ours and allowing our clients to be confident when relying on our opinion.
